1. Policy

a. Lists containing the names and duty station address pertaining to active duty or reserve personnel may be furnished to any organization or individual external to the government provided the guidelines of references (a), (b), and (c) are followed. Specifically, the duty station address pertaining to active duty or Reserve personnel who are

- (1) stationed overseas;
- (2) on deployable units;
- (3) at sensitive units; or

(4) not stationed overseas, on deployable units, or at sensitive units and are below the office director level and not in positions that require frequent interaction with the public;

are not releasable to the general public. All other duty station address information is considered releasable.

b. The home address of all U.S. Navy personnel is prohibited from release to any individual or organization external to the government unless specifically authorized by a statute that supercedes references (a) or (b).
